By main education and most of my professional experience, I am a graphic designer. Actually, I like to say - I am a desktop publisher. What does that mean? I do not consider myself an artist. I am just really skilled with a lot of practice over the last 25 years. After Graphic University, my first job was as an educator. I taught others how to use Adobe Photoshop, Adobe PageMaker (now InDesign), and CorelDRAW.

After that experience, I started to work in a print facility. I do graphic prepress for almost everything - packaging, billboards, leaflets, even visa and government final tests for students. My current favorite app triangle is Illustrator - InDesign - Photoshop. At some point, I changed careers, becoming a Product Marketing Manager, then procurist in hospitality... but I always also worked as a freelance graphic designer.

It was not enough for me, so I started to learn UX design. I finished a 6-month course at Algebra, Zagreb, and there I also started to use Figma.

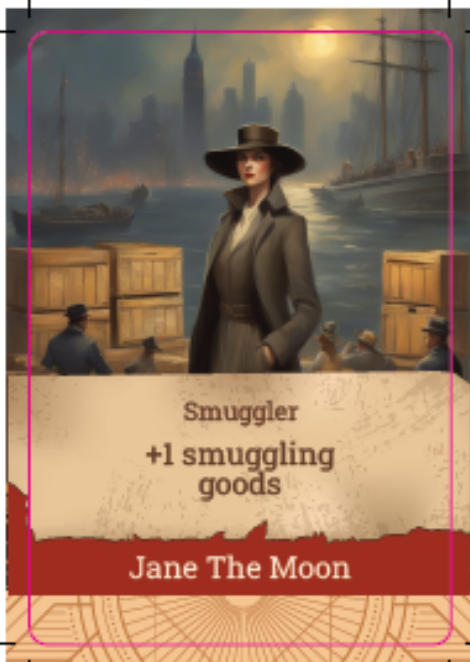

After that, I became very involved in AI content creation. My favorite tool is Synthesia, and I am a beta tester for them. I create hundreds of minutes of video presentations with multilingual avatars for clients and test new Synthesia options before they go public.

Of course, I am fully skilled in digital design as well. For that, I like to use Canva, Adobe Express, Microsoft Designer...

Which is Better?

Woolee organic fertiliser = 100 % natural & safe

Phosphorus from mineral fertilisers is the biggest polluter of groundwater and soil

Nitrogen is short-lived and is easily washed away by rain
